A news dispatch declares that starch is to be taken out of collars for men next season: which sounds reasonable enough. But what casts doubt on the assertion is that the "idea is to make men comfortable." Which is absurd. The whole tendency of civilization is to make men uncomfortable. The whole fashion of wearing clothes at all is conspiracy against the comfort of men. The natural state of man is to eat paw-paws and walnuts, pin on a buffalo tail and run wild. From the time we left Eden, which saw us garbed comfortably, men have been adding one torture to another. And while they may take the starch out of our cuffs and collars, they probably will put something in the other end of the shirt to make up for the small comfort they have vouchsafed to us. There is no rest for the weary—at least, this side of Jordan.—Emporia Gazette.

Lon Jones was arrested Monday charged with stealing wheat from W. F. Rist's granary south of town. Mr. Rist estimates his loss at about two hundred bushels. He is being held at the county seat in default of bail.—Tyrone Observer.

OLD LADY FEELING FINE

After Taking Four Bottles Of Cardui, The Woman's Tonic.

Cobden, Ill.—"Having used Cardui, the woman's tonic, in my family, for a number of years," writes Mrs. Kate Metz, of this town, "and always with such good results, I feel it my duty to write you about it, so that you may publish my letter."

My mother is living with me, and she is 52 years old. For the last three or four years, she has been troubled a great deal with cramping spells, and for days at a time, she would have a severe headache.

She read of how much Cardui has helped other women who were sick and ailing, and decided to give it a trial. She began taking it three times a day, and since then has been getting along simply fine.

Mother only used four bottles of Cardui, but she is no longer troubled with the severe headaches, and her stomach is so much stronger that she can eat most anything.

We both feel that any lady who is not strong and well, would be greatly benefited by the use of Cardui.
